The legal requirements for Registration of Marriages of Foreign Nationals in Sri Lanka are very straightforward. You are required to produce the following documents to the Divisional/District Registrar of the area where your marriage would take place.

- Valid Passports of the couple planning to get married
- Original Birth certificates of the couple planning to get married

- The following documents should be certified by the Foreign & Commonwealth Office (for British nationals) and legalised by the Sri Lanka High Commission, London: -
 - a) Singles - Unmarried certificate/s
 - b) Divorcees- Decree absolute certificate and Free to Marry Certificate/s
 - c) If widowed, the Death Certificate of your late spouse, your previous marriage certificate and Free to Marry Certificate
 - d) If you have changed your name, a Deed Poll (including divorcees who have reverted to their maiden names)
- Unmarried certificate / Free to Marry Certificate: - An affidavit/statutory declaration signed by a solicitor to confirm who you are and your present status (un-married/ free to marry). Separate affidavits for the period of time lived in different countries which are certified/ legalised by respective Foreign Office & Sri Lankan Mission accredited to that country
- For other nationals living in the UK, the documents should be certified by their respective Diplomatic Mission in the UK and legalised by the Sri Lanka High Commission in London.
- Valid visa to travel to Sri Lanka (Tourist visa)

All documents must be in English in case of foreign nationals. You must have resided in Sri Lanka for at least four (04) days immediately prior to the date of giving notice before the registration can take place.

PLEASE NOTE: Once you are married in Sri Lanka, you must get your marriage certificate certified by the Consular Affairs Section of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Colombo; if the certificate issued in Sinhalese/ Tamil language you may obtain official English translation and get the same certified by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Your marriage certificate will be accepted outside Sri Lanka only if it is legalised by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Sri Lanka.
